RAINIER VISTA

my Dearest Love, my sacred hope, my number one slave.

Thats not bad for a introduction. (Ha Ha)

Its been a pretty good year, at least it was pretty good for you, the way you go and mess around with all the guys, you just better watch your step or a certain someone, like your husband will divorce you, and leave you holding the bag. Your a pretty good wife, I just wish I could see you more. In all truthfulness, your one of the nicest girls I know. You act a lil different than most of the girls I know, its not bad though, its good, and thats one reason why I like you. I hope you never change, cause if you did, it just wouldn't be you. Dont forget the Boss band trips, and the fun we had. Be good. Love Jeff.

*This is the Face of Youth . . .

Dear Terri,
 You have
 ... An ever changing face

Upon which youthful ambition,

Fond dreams, and reality are Mirrored.

I have really enjoyed being friends with you this year. May God richly bless you always!

Love

Upon which the hopes,
Fears, and problems
Of the future rest heavily.

This is the Face of Youth . . .

. . . A radiant face —

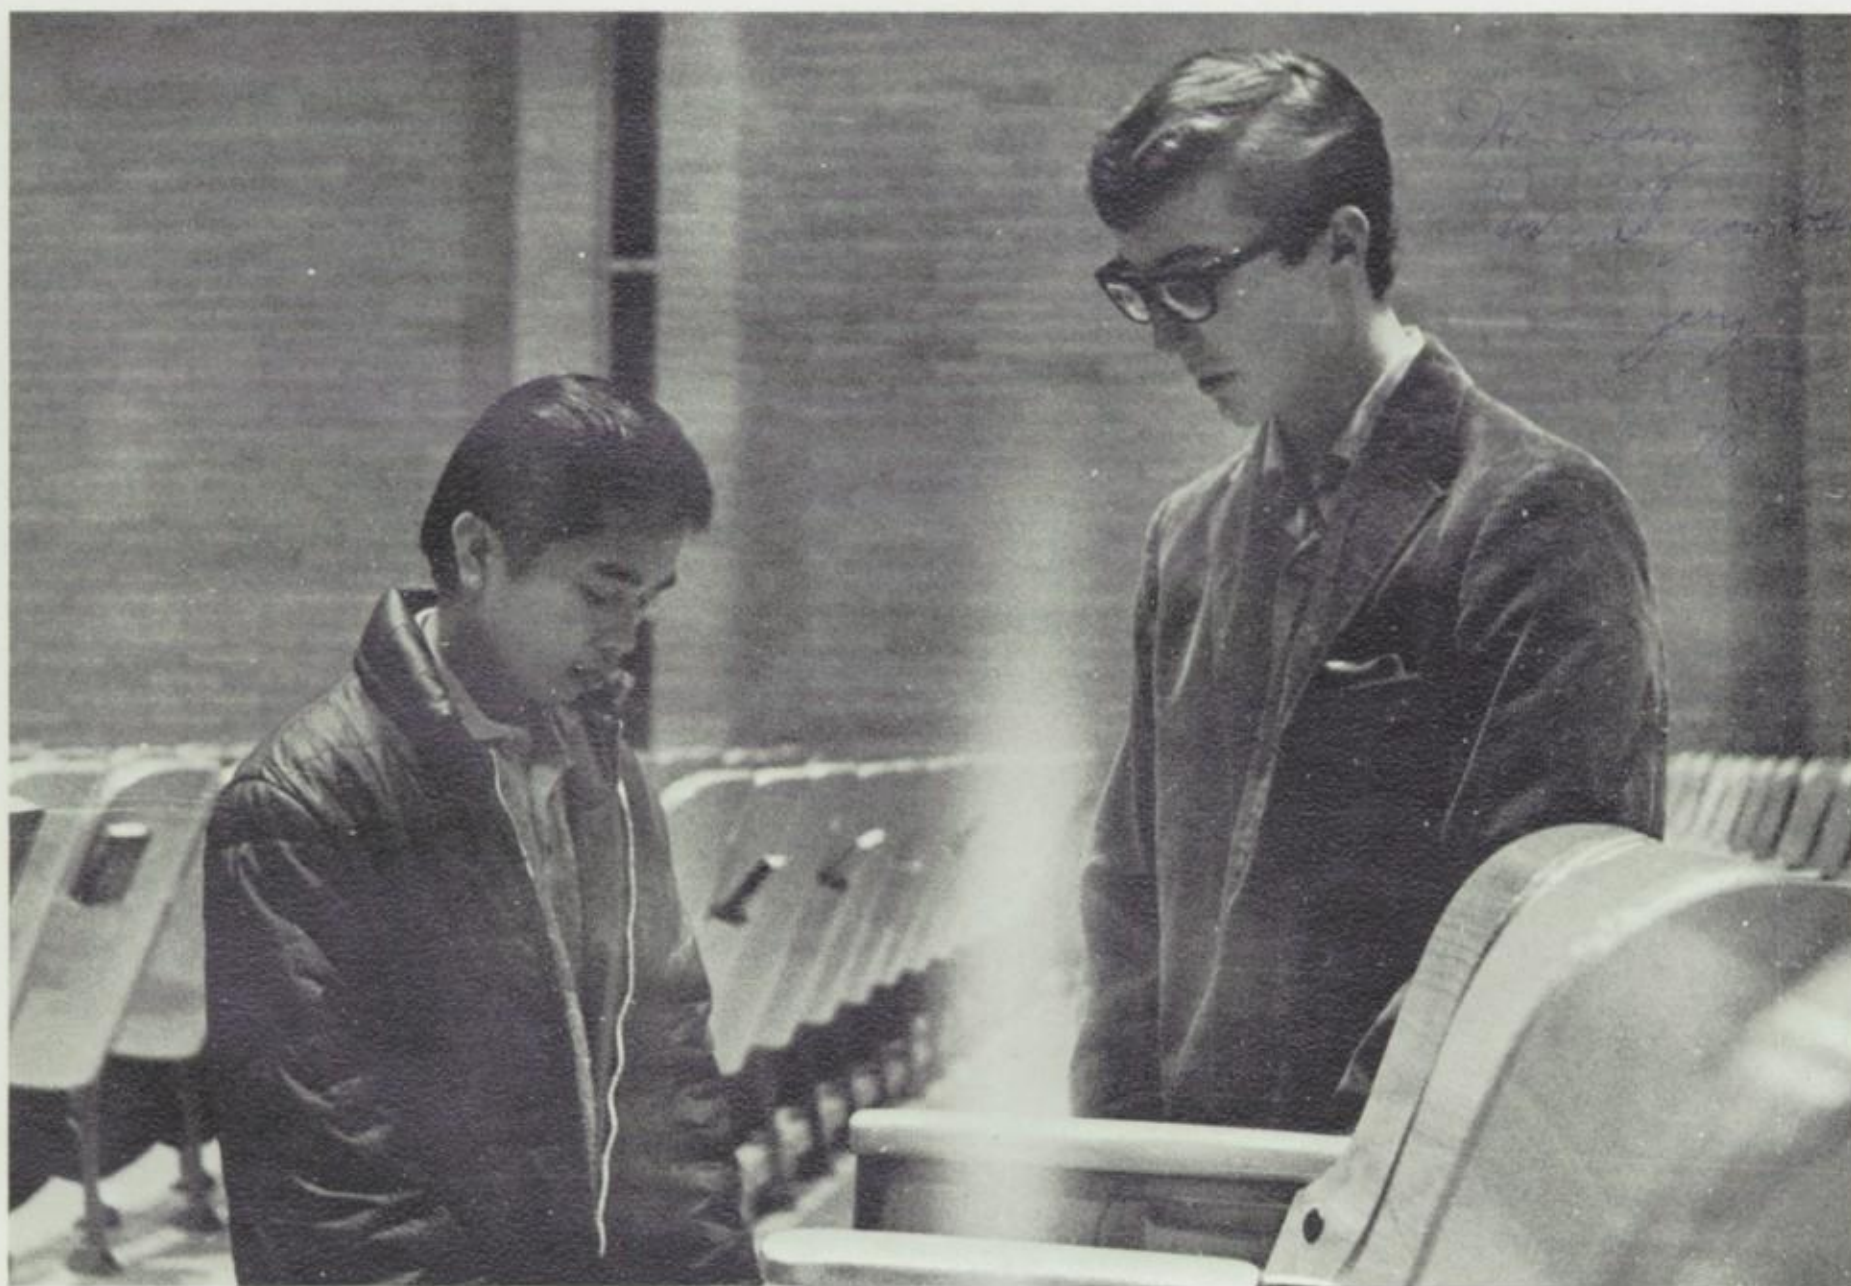

Full of energy, joy and hope

And its own special dream.

This is the peaceful face
For within this face Shines Christianity ever striving
To make this world a better place.

Dear Jerry, Lee Williams,

Howdy big sister. It's been fun being your little sister this year. I would just love to come to your house sometime but I'm afraid I would run into some difficulty with Richard Neil Raben. So you know what that means. Maybe I'll get up the courage to come over sometime.

a place devoted

I really enjoyed getting up at 4:30 in the morning to go on a band trip that which the bus didn't leave until 6:00. What a bummer!

of Christian ideals.

Like the song says that is playing right now "Big Girls Don't Cry" I guess I better not cry when you, Steve, & Jane graduate. I'll miss ya all something terrible.

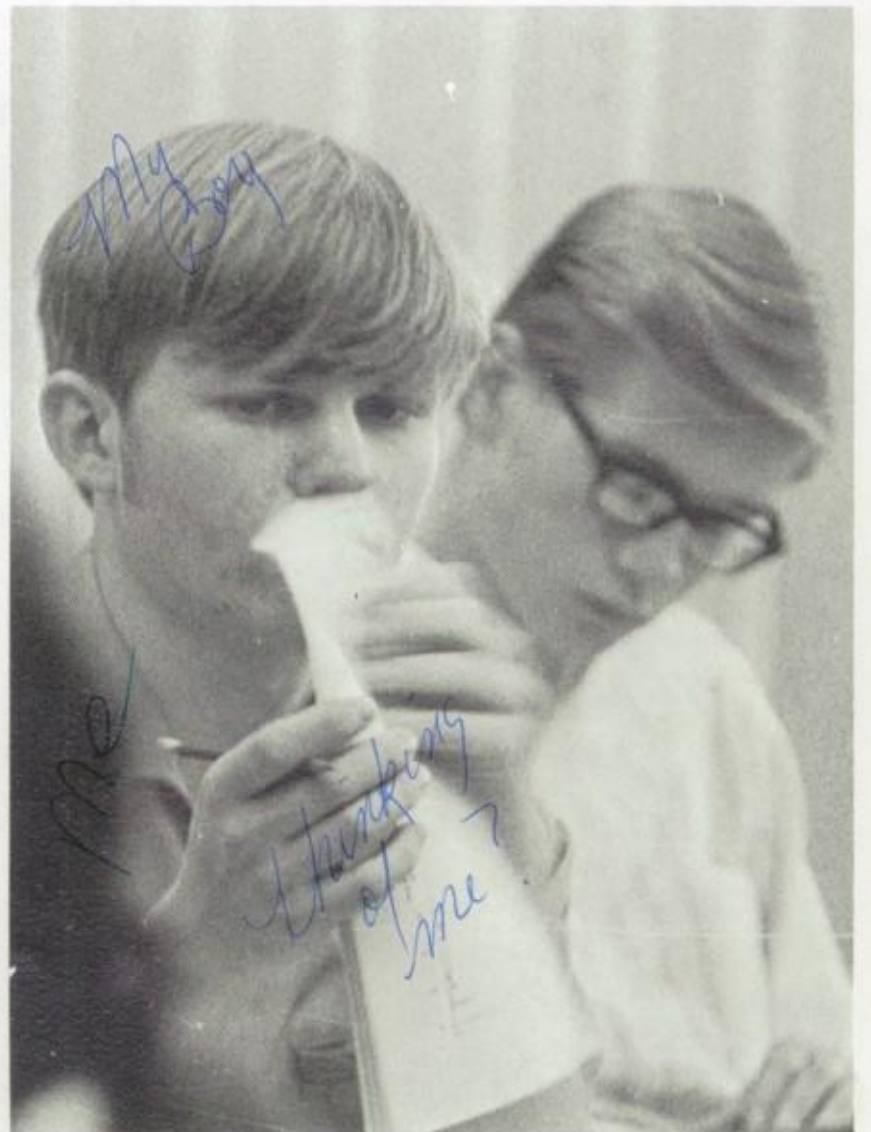

Maybe I'll see ya sometime next year. I hope so!

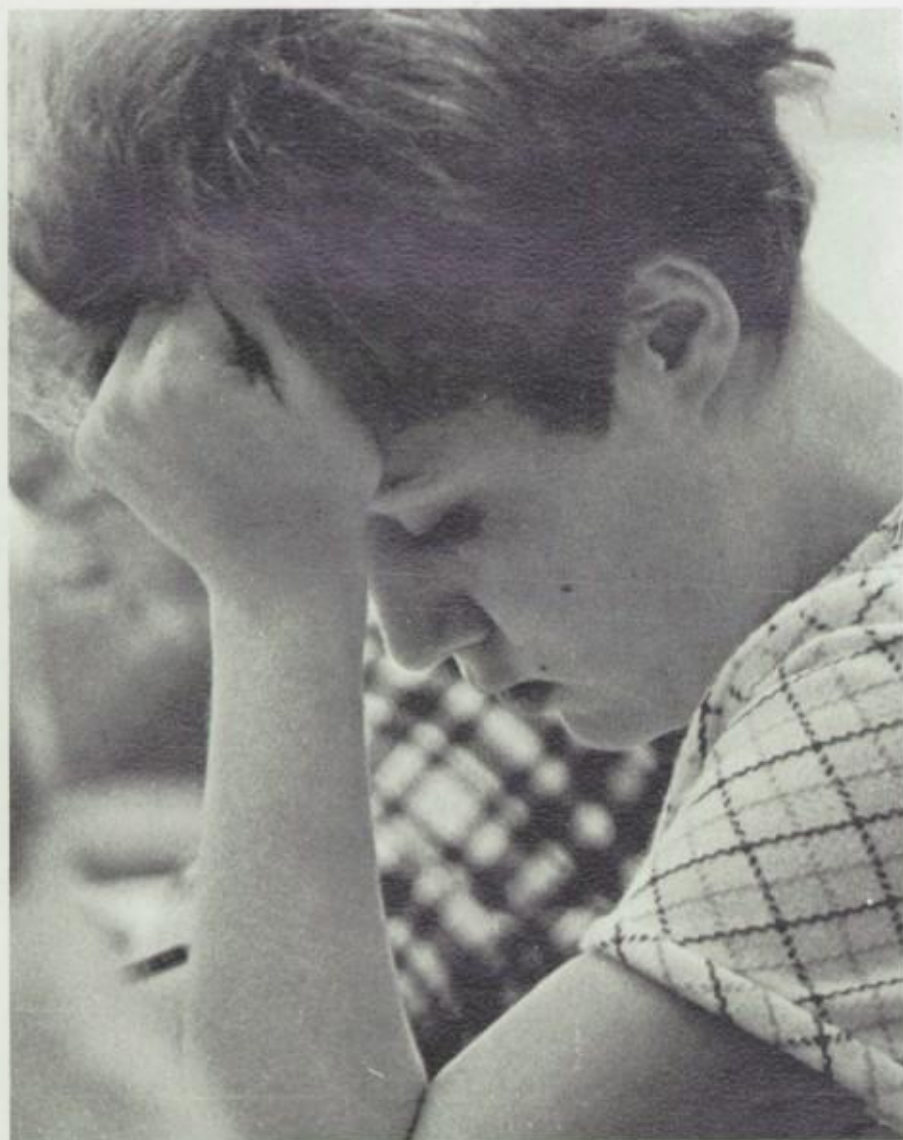

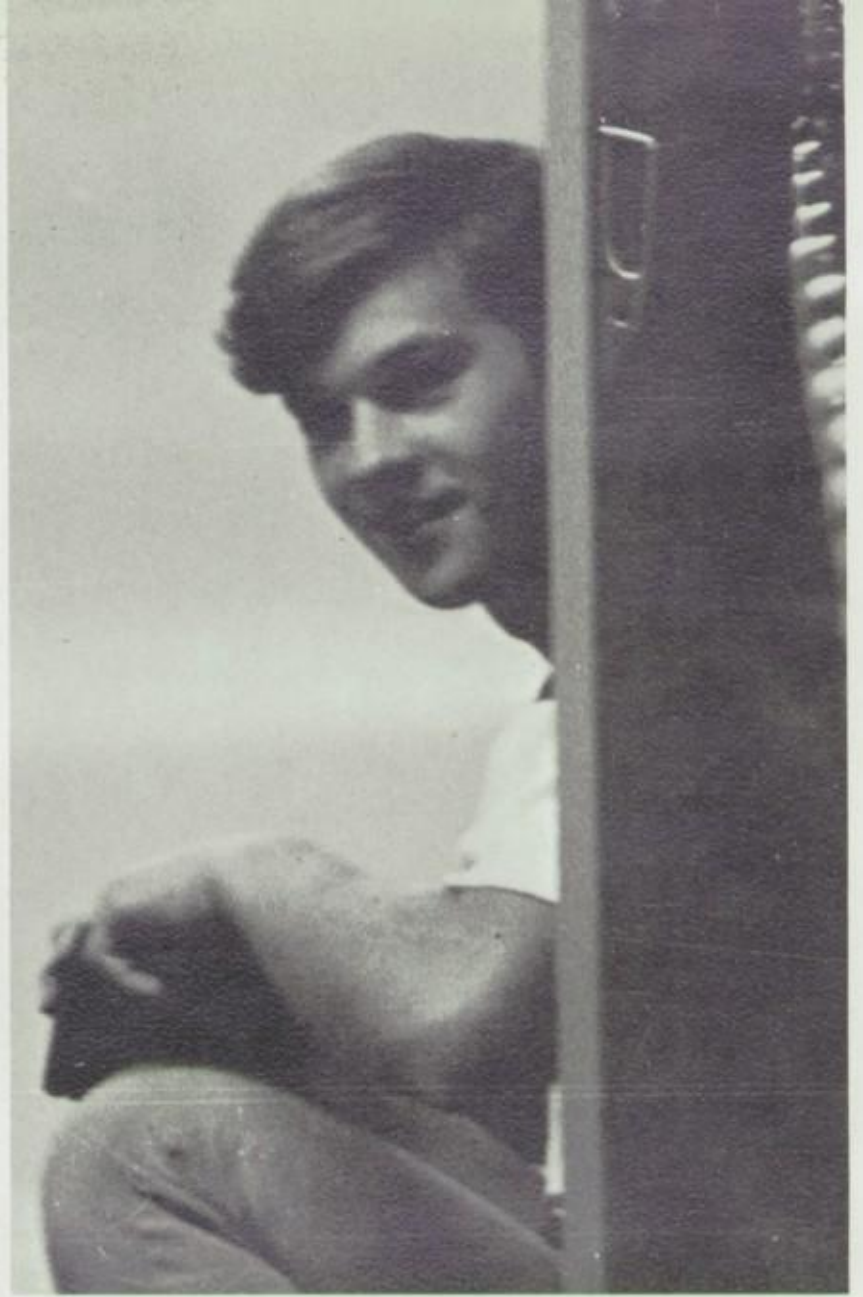

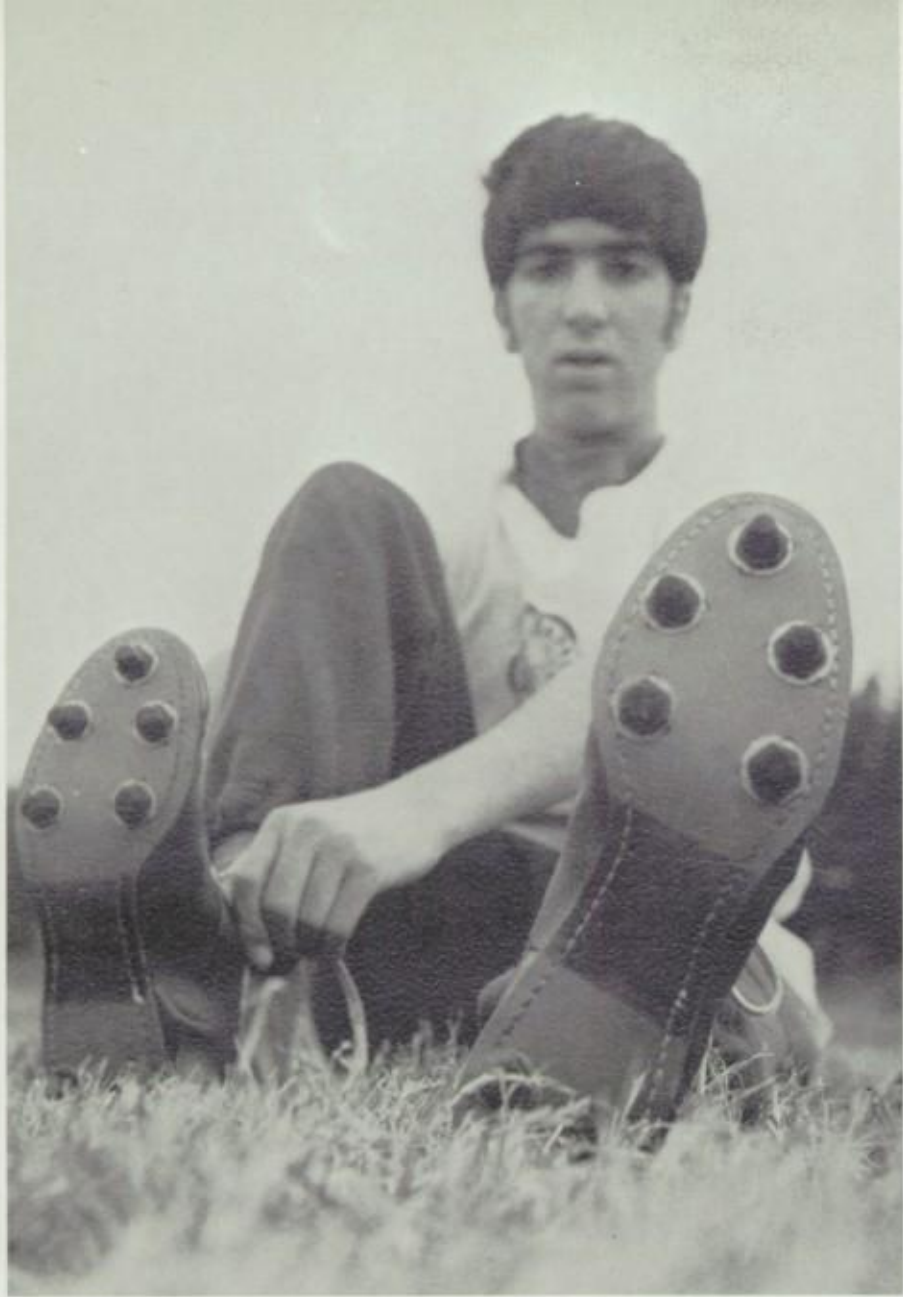

Luv ya always,

* Dedication

Who in her sixth year at Auburn Academy has given so much of her time in drilling students on English grammar and literature, and who has prodded her students toward a better command of the English speech and writing?

She is a woman who has been an inspiration to all, especially those who have had the privilege of her guidance. Always with a ready smile and a witty sense of humor, her friendliness to the students is admirable. Beneath this all is a deep devotion and personal interest shown by her industriousness. Any student of hers realizes he must work hard for she expects of him what she would expect of herself. Not only does she strive to prepare her students for college, but she really wants to know the students as individuals. She has given much of her time to school activities and has served as our sedulous RAINIER VISTA advisor in past years.

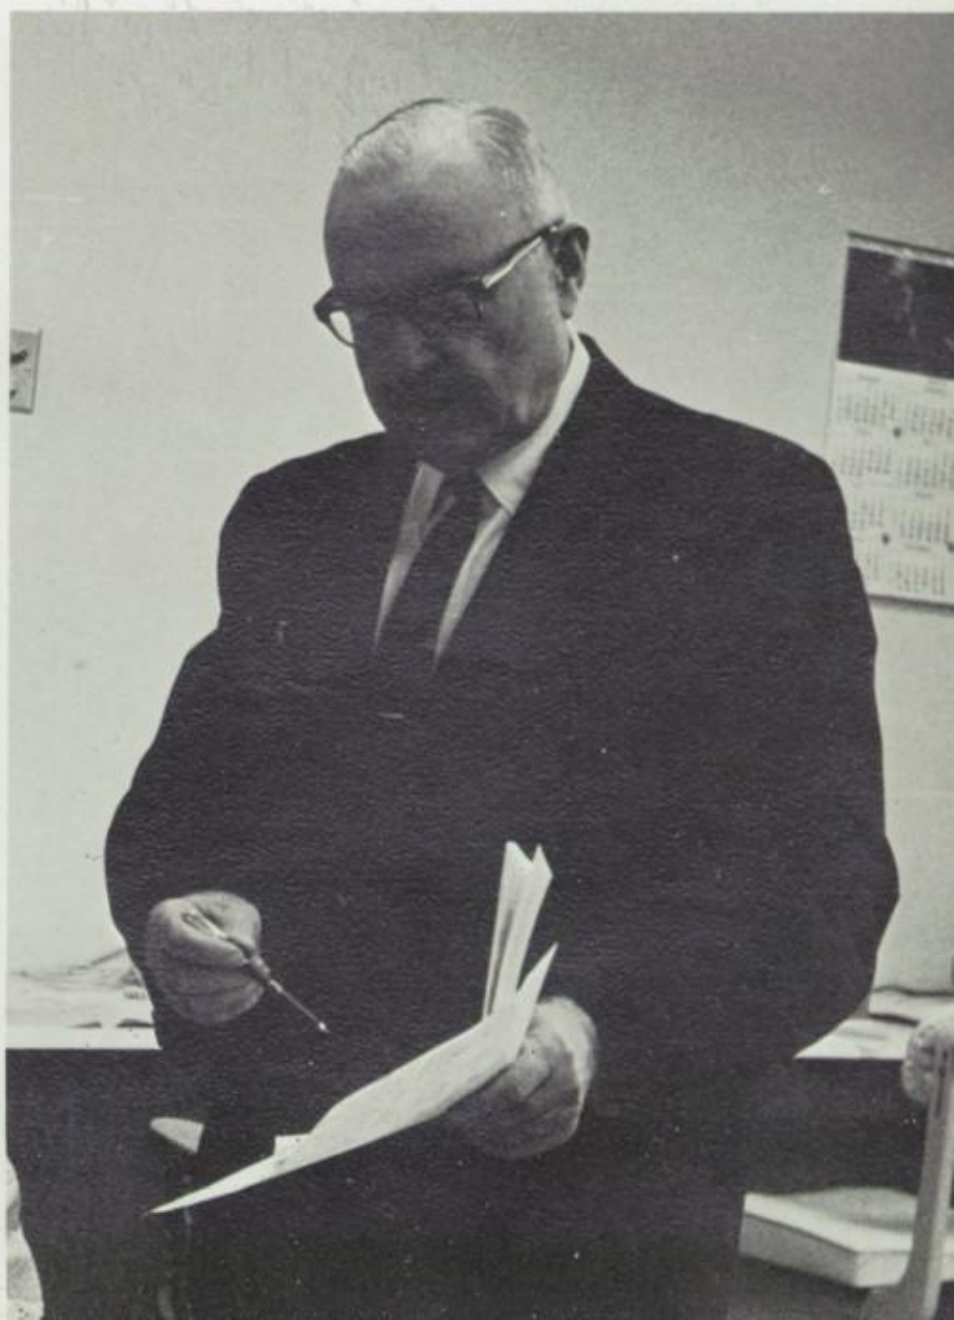

For such outstanding qualities and service we dedicate the 1970 RAINIER VISTA to Mrs. Laurinda Crays.

New Ideas for School

Mr. Clyde Smith
Treasurer
U.S. History

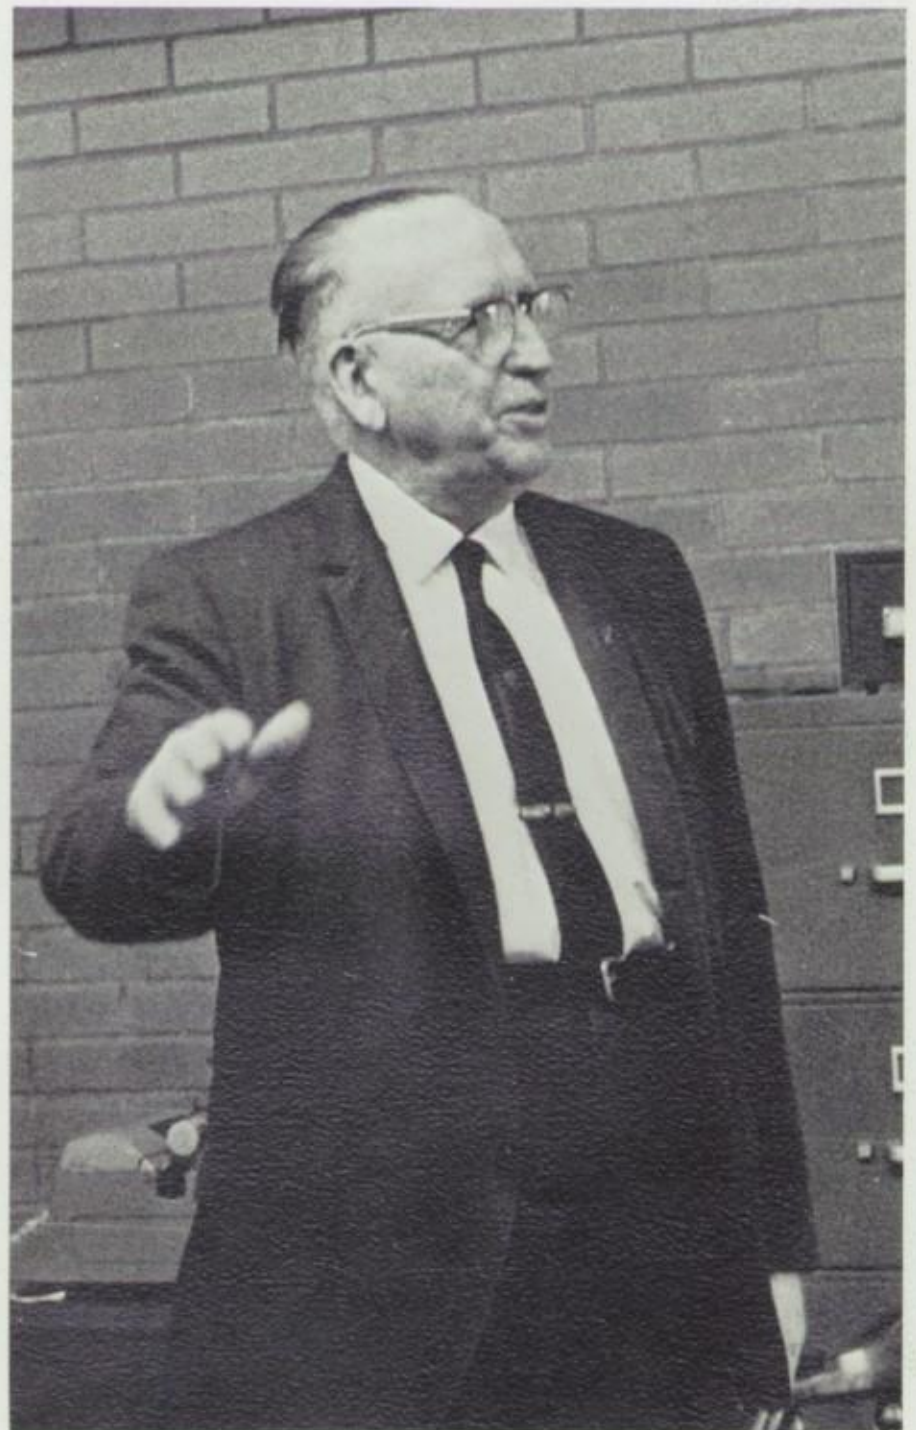

Elder J. Randall Sloop
Finance Manager

Dr. John Howell
Public Relations Manager

The administration of Auburn Academy has grown and changed with the community. This year we have had a new and unique administrative team working with Elder Carl Jorgenson, Principal. Different committees headed by Elder Loren Poole, vice principal met many times during the year to discuss and find solutions to such problems as early home leaves, attendance and social conduct. In other committees and faculty meetings, the administrators made and revised rules. They worked especially hard this year on the problem of how to cut down costs. New ideas for school development were introduced for the betterment of our school.

Dr. John Howell discusses current news.

Miss Eunice Youngberg shows a personal interest in her girls.

Living in a dormitory with so many other girls can be very interesting, exciting, exasperating, and difficult at times. Both Girls' Residence Hall Deans have worked hard to make this a good year.

One of the things that benefited our dormitory was the dorm councils. It consisted of one representative from each wing who would present problems or ideas of that wing as a whole. The dorm councils were also responsible for the Christmas decorating ideas in the different halls.

* Smiles even come in office duties as Mrs. Jessie Olson reviews a report with her secretary, Cheryl Magnussen.

Mrs. Leora Latsha pauses to visit during study hall.

Everyone will agree that Mr. Wentland and Mr. Ault have a real job in keeping Witzel Hall under control. Life in boys dormitories always seems to be exciting, and Witzel is certainly no exception. As the faithful monitors do their best to keep their halls under control during study period and the deans do their best to keep the monitors under control—life goes on for the men of Witzel Hall. There's never a dull moment as they work together as one big family to make each new day better than the previous one.

I wish it has been nice to get to know you this year. Don't forget to always keep God first. W.R.W.

Telephones are in constant use all day long.

Mr. Wayne Wentland is every ready to counsel with a problem as seen here with Larry Luce.

Mr. Forris Chaney

es Spiritual Revival in 1970

The Bible department, under the leadership of the Academy pastor, Elder Joe Engelkemier, endeavored to bring a greater spiritual awareness to the students and faculty of Auburn Academy. Those in charge tried to motivate one and all to "Prepare the Way," as the theme of Auburn Academy could well be termed. Bible classes had the highest enrollment of any other type of class, for each Auburnite took a class covering some phase of Christianity, such as Old and New Testament History, Bible Doctrines, Youth Guidance, and Prophetic Guidance. Several Bible classes were held in the chapel to accomodate the overflow of students this past year. In the Bible Doctrines classes, students gave each other Bible studies, and were encouraged to give Bible studies in the community as well. In various other Bible classes, discussion groups were held that allowed for students to express and release pent-up questions and ideas. Bible classes sometimes included singing and prayer bands.

Yes, to the students of Auburn Academy, religion really came alive this past year, for Bible was more than just memorizing texts and rereading Bible stories. It was getting a new look at the character and personality of the Man Jesus Christ. It was learning how to be happy and get the most out of this life and how to prepare for the next. It was getting to know yourself and find the true purpose of life. These men, our Bible teachers, have helped us find these guidelines to a richer and fuller Christian experience.

Miss Carolyn Stevens and Sheryl Blankenship plan another humorous account for the RAINIER ECHOES.

Learning how to communicate with others is a very essential and sometimes difficult task. It is more than knowing how to use proper English in every day writing and conversation. It is knowing how to paint vivid word pictures. The many English teachers have done much to improve the understanding and knowledge of the English language on our campus.

During a Speech class Mrs. Laurinda Crays clarifies articulation.

Through the combining of the library and the multi-purpose area under the direction of Mrs. Laurinda Crays and Mrs. Ruby Schmidt, another dream at Auburn Academy has become a reality. Our new Learning Resources Center is greatly expanded. Now it is more than just rows and rows of books. It includes audio-visual equipment with filmstrip guides, foreign language tapes, and information concerning colleges and careers. With the increasing demands for a higher level of education comes the demand for more resources. Through much hard work this goal is being attained at Auburn Academy.

Although much of their study is about their own country, History students also learn about the culture of other countries. The various teachers in this department have strived to make History vivid and interesting for their students.

Also there is more to learning a foreign language than pronunciation, spelling and grammar. Much of it is about the country's culture. Mr. James Fisher has emphasized this to his students mainly by the use of films.

Mr. Ronald Miller always has a ready smile for anyone who pays a visit.

Mr. James Fisher loads his camera, preparing to take some RAINIER VISTA pictures.

Interior Decorating

Two new courses were taught in the field of Home Economics this year. Needlecraft, a very painstaking art, took a lot of effort on the part of each student to learn and nimbly make each stitch correctly. Interior Decorating was a very enjoyable class for most students. It included color schemes, furniture choice and room planning.

Hidden talents of creativity were brought out through the classes of art and ceramics. In painting the students could express their innermost feelings and emotions. Opportunity to make pottery and design it in his own way was given to the student who took an interest in ceramics.

Under Miss Jacqueline Lange's supervision, Linda Green finishes her watercolor.

This year the academy purchased a new IBM key-punch machine. A one semester class in key-punch was offered during chapel period to approximately 15 students per semester. The Secretarial Science Department hopes to purchase more key-punch machines so as to offer the class on a larger basis next year.

Music is entertaining as well as educational. The many music students at Auburn Academy have found this to be true. The piano and organ students have displayed their talents and hard work on the nights of their recitals. Voice students and those in the Sylvan Chorus and Choir work together to produce unity of sound for their special music, concerts and tours. The efforts of the members of instrumental organizations too were rewarded on the nights of concerts. All have benefited greatly by music.

Cafeteria Assistant

Employing 60 students and serving 900 to 1000 meals a day, the cafeteria could have been termed the busiest place on campus this past year. Working in the cafeteria included preparing hundreds of salads, making thousands of peanut butter cookies, and making many gallons of juice. Cleanup consisted of scraping gushy left-overs off plates, scouring endless pots and pans, mopping for hours and getting nowhere, wiping little piles of salt off tables, filling sticky honey bottles and many other tasks.

The cafeteria also provided a great service to the students by giving them fruit and preparing sack lunches for about 75 night workers. Special events such as banquets were also painstakingly prepared.

The Work Behind the Smo

Mr. Kenneth Syphers

Maintenance

With our increasing student population, the responsibilities of keeping up our campus and buildings were steadily increased. In the many departments were students workers who operated lawn mowers, pulled weeds, and kept hot water, electricity and plumbing in order.

Mr. James Rumble and his student nightwatch patrolled our campus during the dusk till dawn hours. This was no small task and with the intercom system, the nightwatch assured students of safety.

Clean halls and restrooms in the Administration Building and dorms were the goals of the janitors. It was a busy job and kept the workers on the watch for stray bits of papers and dirty sinks.

✧ Busy Spots On Our Campus

Perhaps one of the best known spots on our campus was the school store for it seemed constantly busy. Not only were school supplies sold there, but also food and personal items. While deciding over a candy bar or attempting to retrieve a stuck dime in the pop machine, there was time to converse with other students.

From Sunday through Thursday approximately seven girls were busily attending to laundry items. Much experience was gained in sorting, folding and ironing as the workers readily agreed. On Friday, another weeks laundry was cleaned and ready for the students to pick up due to the laundry workers' diligent efforts.

Building Provides New Jobs

Larry Luce and Doug Parrish accurately measure building materials used.

Fred Shumate knows that building also includes clearing.

Precision tools aid Larry Murrill in the final cutting.

During the school year several students in the building and design course worked zealously in building new faculty homes. The course instructor, Mr. Freitas, gave the hardworking students regular classroom credit in addition to their regular pay. The class helped those involved to develop the necessary skills needed in building and also gave the students much opportunity to put into practice some of the skills already acquired.

Fran Aust cautiously tails the line saw.

Harris Pine Mill has expanded. A new addition was constructed to the mill room. It is in the mill room that the boards for future furniture were cut, sized and shaped. From there the parts were assembled in the assembly room. Check sanding was the next step done to remove the roughness of the furniture. Then, with a coat of stain it was ready to be packaged in the shipping room and finally loaded on the trucks to various places.

This work provided the opportunity for many students to earn a major part of their expenses. Not only did the students gain a knowledge of the furniture building field but they also received valuable training regarding punctuality, perseverance and responsibility.

There are 32 offices spread out over various departments on campus. Some like the grounds secretary are alone on the job and some like the Registrar's office have eight working at once. The students who work here must do a variety of jobs from typing letters to finding a lost wrench, and from counting pennies to catching flies.

CLASSES

Seniors Reach Goal

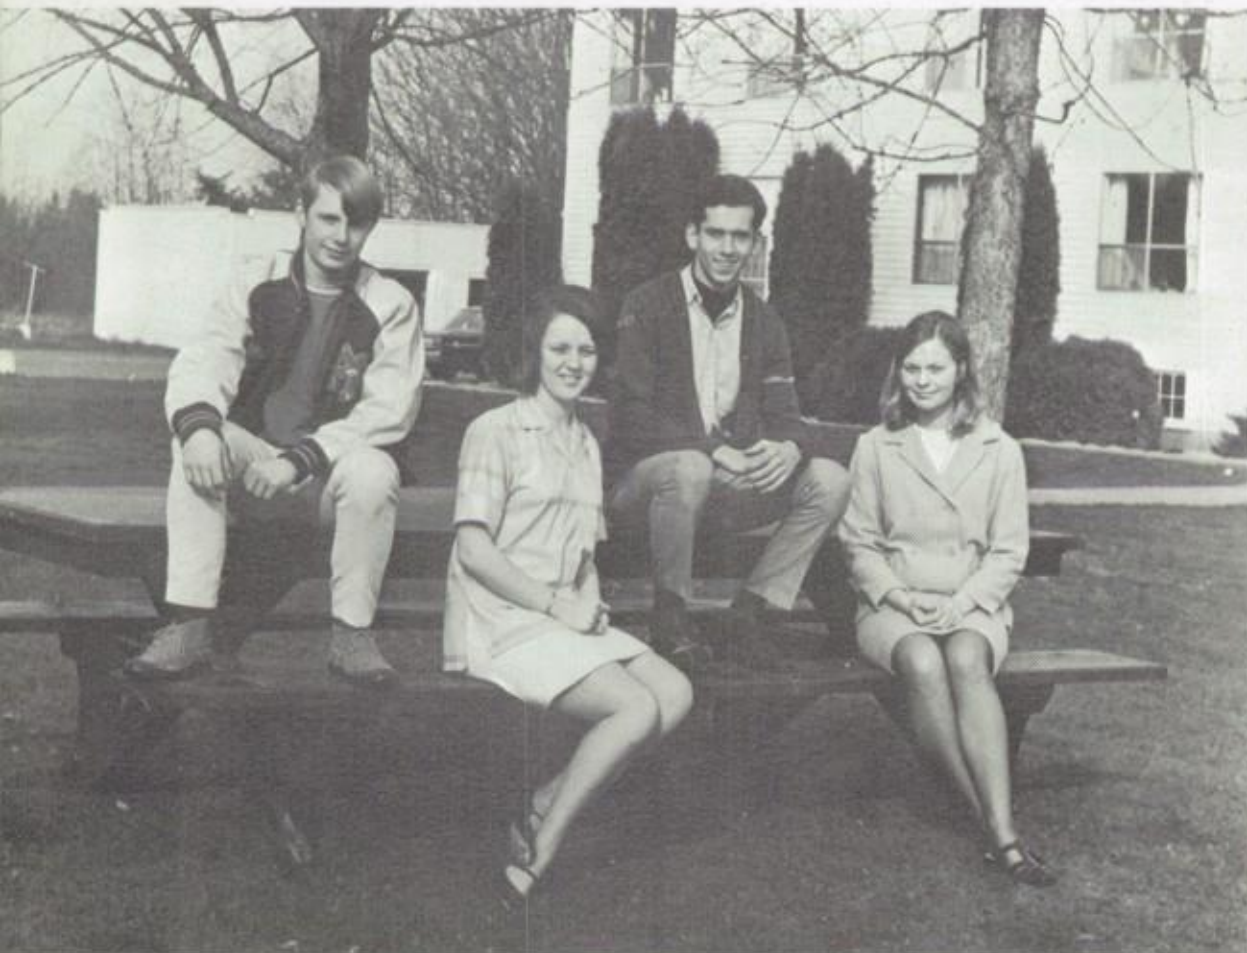

A long-awaited goal was attained as the class of '70 became Seniors. A feeling of supremacy filled the air.

For as a senior he had become more aware of the close relationship between the faculty and his associates. He had developed a broader scope of life and his understanding had matured. Throughout the years friendships had been formed that would stand the test of time. The knowledge and wisdom gained from the academic years was needed preparation for the future he with Christ would face.

Involvement was synonymous with the word senior. This came from the desire to be active. Active in club leadership positions, sports, and various group organizations. Senior activities consisted of a banquet to the Revolving Space Needle Restaurant in Seattle hosted by Walla Walla College, Student Week of Prayer, Senior recognition, Senior breakfast at which the class decided upon an overseas mission project as a memorial to Dr. J.V. Peters, Junior-Senior Banquet, and a ship cruise to Victoria, B.C. Graduation day on May 24th was the glorious finale.

Vice-president Doris Anderson and president Andy Wheeler make arrangements for Junior-Senior Banquet.

"Happiness is the class of '71!" No Junior would ever deny that. But perhaps Andy and Doris had their doubts as they struggled through the days preceding the Junior-Senior Banquet. But when the night of March 29 brought them all "The Magic of Spring" everyone agreed that the class of '71 had many outstanding qualities.

The Juniors learned that being a good class member was more than showing class spirit on campus day or having fun at a class party. It was showing other classes they were important. It was helping underclassmen realize their place at Auburn Academy was just as essential as that of an upperclassman. It was showing the Seniors that they had done much to make the year a better one for all. It was showing them by the flood of tears at graduation that the empty spaces they would leave would be hard to fill.

Being a Junior of the class of '71 was more than caring about the Junior class. It was caring about the other classes, caring about the faculty, and caring about the future of Auburn Academy.

Sophomores Actively Participate in School Affairs

The Class of '72, composed of over 140 members, elected Dave Knight as their president on Feb. 1, 1970. The officers received first-hand experience in learning how to plan and organize activities such as the traditional class parties in March and the class picnic later in spring. For the members of the sophomore class, the year was not all fun and games. It involved the daily hassel of getting geometry papers done on time. (Mr. Parker accepted NO late papers.) The complexity of problems and daily life was almost overwhleming. Students were constantly perplexed as they struggled to discover answers to their questions in Biology. They were spurred on by one goal—the anticipation of being "upperclassmen."

Freshmen- Class of '73

The Freshman year was a time of beginning, of growing and of learning. As an active class the Freshman participated in "B" leagues, class parties and the class picnic. As the year progressed each student became more involved in his goal. The end of the year came. And the scared quavering freshmen that had arrived on campus were now polished Auburnites, each fitting into particular groove, contributing to the school. They will remember their Freshman year; if not for the knowledge they gained, then for the companionship.

ACTIVITIES

Active Clubs on Campus

First Semester Sabbath School Officers—Sitting: B. Myers, W. Wentland, T. Eggert, T. Howard. Standing: L. Long, D. Gohl, L. Murrill, Mr. D. Mummert, sponsor.

S. Becraft, secretary, and N. Lindsay, president, led out in the Temperance activities.

Many students held positions of leadership through religious organizations. Students took part in planning and presenting the Sabbath School programs from week to week. Several students were themselves children of missionaries and gave interesting accounts of their adventures in a foreign field. The Voice of Youth met each Friday night and worked on presenting Sabbath School and Church services at local churches. This group promoted Teen-dial, a telephone sermonette which could be listened to by dialing TEEN-251. Students then visited interested persons on request. The Temperance Club sponsored the Temperance contest in which students gave speeches, wrote essays, and submitted posters and jingles.

Students in the Teachers of Tomorrow club taught at Buena Vista during their free periods. This gave them valuable experience in teaching and they received school credit for it.

Christ's Soon Coming

Pastor Edwin Zackrison presented our Spring Week of Prayer.

During our Fall Week of Prayer Elder Al Webb presented talks on the Christian life. Practical Christian living is what each of us needs in the world of today.

In January members of the Voice of Youth presented an inspirational series of talks on "This We Believe." Each centered around some aspect of Christ.

Pastor Edwin Zackrison told us several reasons for "Getting to Know God" during our Spring Week of Prayer. Some think they can take care of themselves, but we know we need God, and the only cost is faith and acceptance.

Each of the meetings have been helpful in our Christian experience in getting to know more about Christ.

Students seek peace through communication with God during prayer bands.

The Spiritual Aspect of

This year at Auburn Academy has seen a real zeal among the students to be rally on fire for Christ. During Bible conferences held at Sunset Lake many took a decisive step for Christ. Others reconsecrated themselves and some were baptized. These conferences proved a blessing to the campus as a whole. As a result of these, special prayer bands were formed which met in the morning before classes, or after Chapel periods.

Many are baptized as a result of Bible conferences.

There is fun too.

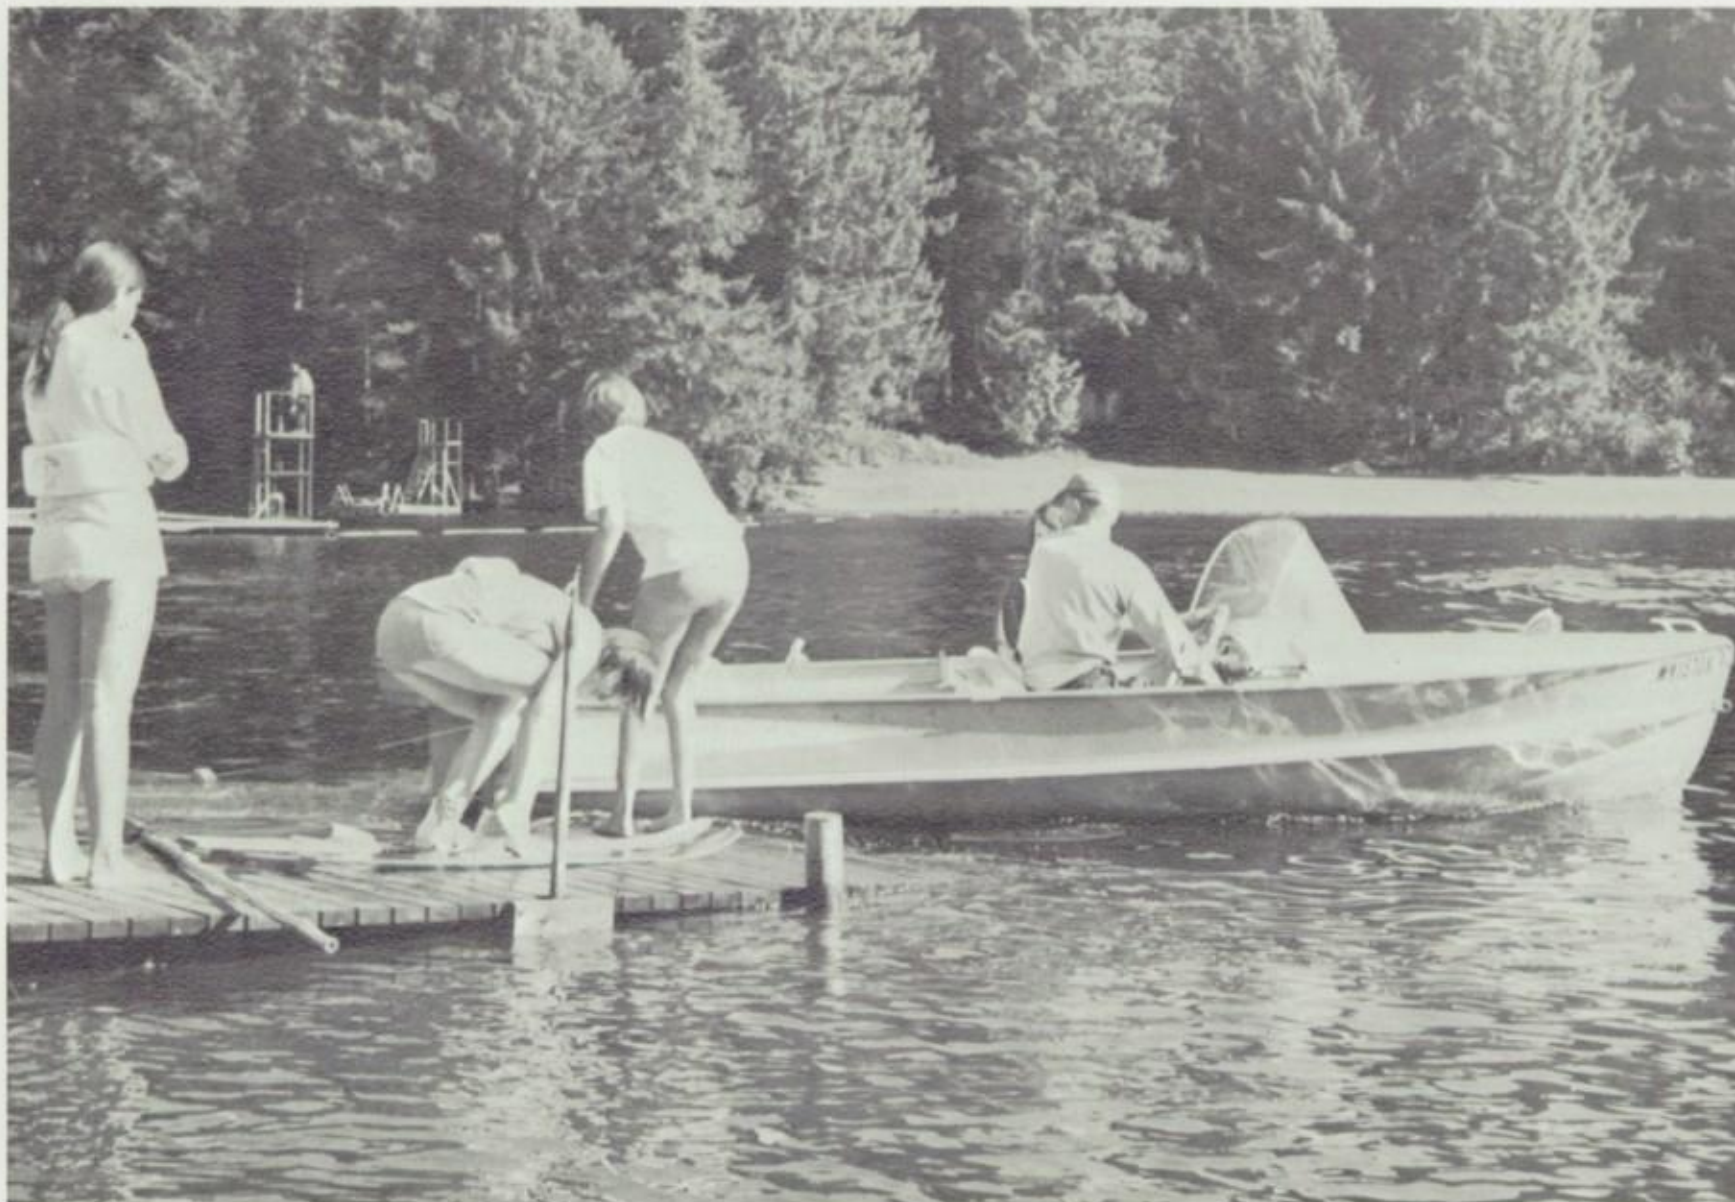

Talking about Christ is easy in His beautiful out-of-doors.

Good food is necessary to have a good, clear thinking, Christ-like mind.

For most, waiting in line is the most dreaded part of registering.

Record Registration Brings 556

Registration was an all day task which was just as tiring for the Senior as for the new Freshman. It could be justly summed up in one word, "hectic." Besides running from building to building getting signatures and adjusting school and work schedules, there was the greeting of old friends and new students. The annual Handshake made this getting acquainted easier. Following a short program was a watermelon feed in the tennis court.

Elder Carl Jorgensen and Judy Lamberton chat a moment upon their acquaintance.

A.S.A.A. Sponsors Cornfeed

A.S.A.A. officers shuck and prepare the corn for the annual cornfeed.

Not one person at Auburn Academy was left out of the largest organization on campus, the Associated Students of Auburn Academy. Students and faculty alike were members, and all were invited to be active participants. The first organized A.S.A.A. meeting was the annual handshake, concluding with the watermelon feed. Meetings varied to a great extent: From the cornfeed after a Saturday night's social to the "Oldywed's Game" for a chapel period, from the Culture Week, culminating with the crowning of a Culture king and queen, to the sponsorship of a needy family at Christmas time.

A.S.A.A. First Semester Officers: Mr. Miller, sponsor, J. Landreth, sergeant-at-arms; N. Lindsay, spiritual vice-president; N. Beck, pianist; T. Detwiler, boys' sports secretary; C. Entertainment Planned for All

Bill Poole and Larry Luce race in boxes at the parties in the gym.

Larry Thompson, "famous" news announcer and speech class member, participates in chapel.

The calendar of events for Auburn was full and busy this year. Programs of interest to everyone were presented. Dr. Ernest Booth, renowned in the Biology field, presented his film, "Land of the Incas." Later, progressive parties were held on campus. Students went through the boys and girls dorm lobbies and rec rooms, the music building, gymnasium and cafeteria, to play games, enjoy fellowship, and EAT. The P.E. Dept. presented a program of games and competition on Oct. 5. Students vigorously participated in pillow fights, obstacle courses, basketball relays, and a giant balloon stomp.

Second semester social programs started with the presentation of a musical evening by the Walla Walla College orchestra. In March the Faculty sponsored a student-faculty day in which the roles of faculty were handed over to students. The last month, May, was packed with programs such as The United Medical Laboratories Chorale and the Sports Social.

The student senate, comprised of 26 members met whenever the President of A.S.A.A. called meetings. There was one senator for each 20 members of a class. The senate helped to decide on the A.S.A.A. Annual Improvement Campaign for a ski lodge. Minutes of all senate meetings were read in A.S.A.A. meetings for approval.

ASAA second semester was a very busy one. To start, the officers planned a chapel program promoting the use and benefits of a school sweater. On the Tuesday before Valentine's Day the girls were forbidden to talk to the boys. A breaking of the rule meant the sacrifice of a heart. Then started the annual campaign. A benefit program called the "Polynesian Night" was presented to help raise money. All the programs planned were well enjoyed.

Z.K. Uses Home Talent

Sandy Jenkins and Linda West re-enact dorm life in a skit for Zeta Kappa.

The ladies of Auburn Academy became the members of an exclusive club after payment of their $2.00 dues on registration day. This past year Zeta Kappa worked towards establishing unity and Christian love in dorm situations and with the village girls. At the beginning of the year each old member chose a new member to be her "little sister." To get a little better acquainted an informal meeting was held at Inspiration Point, including singing, guitar playing, and chit-chat. Regular meetings were held on the first and third Monday nights of each month. Programs included a hair stylist from Seattle, an interior decorator, and an impromptu Amateur Hour. This past year Zeta Kappa also had some very special programs, one of which was Open House. Committees, headed by the officers, planned and decorated for the very enjoyable evening, using as their theme "Sugar 'n Spice 'n Everything Nice." Most girls and their dates dressed old-fashioned. The Halloween party was well-liked by all, for each girl received a surprise package from home. Two major springtime programs of the year were the Mother-daughter brunch and Girls' Club Benefit Program called "My Old Hometown."

The men of Auburn Academy were all members of a club they knew to be the greatest, Casa Loma. The regular meetings were held every other Monday night. "Cage Ball" was a favorite activity of the club, during the evenings. Later on spaghetti feeds, guest speakers and films were provided for relaxing entertainment. As usual, the club sponsored the Amateur Hour which was a tremendous success. The theme was centered around knights of old and medieval castles. The semi-formal banquet in March used the theme "Big Top."

The work involved in laying out and organizing the RAINIER VISTA this past year was no different than any other year. Many tedious hours were spent soliciting ads, cropping pictures, laying out pages, writing copy, dreaming up captions, and numerous other "small" jobs. At times Sharon felt like giving up under the stress and strain of being yearbook editor. She tried about every method possible to make her staff produce, but at times to no avail. The ordeal of meeting deadlines was a constant struggle and almost an impossibility. Each staff member eagerly looked forward to March 13 when the last pages of the RAINIER VISTA would leave Auburn Academy for Pischels.

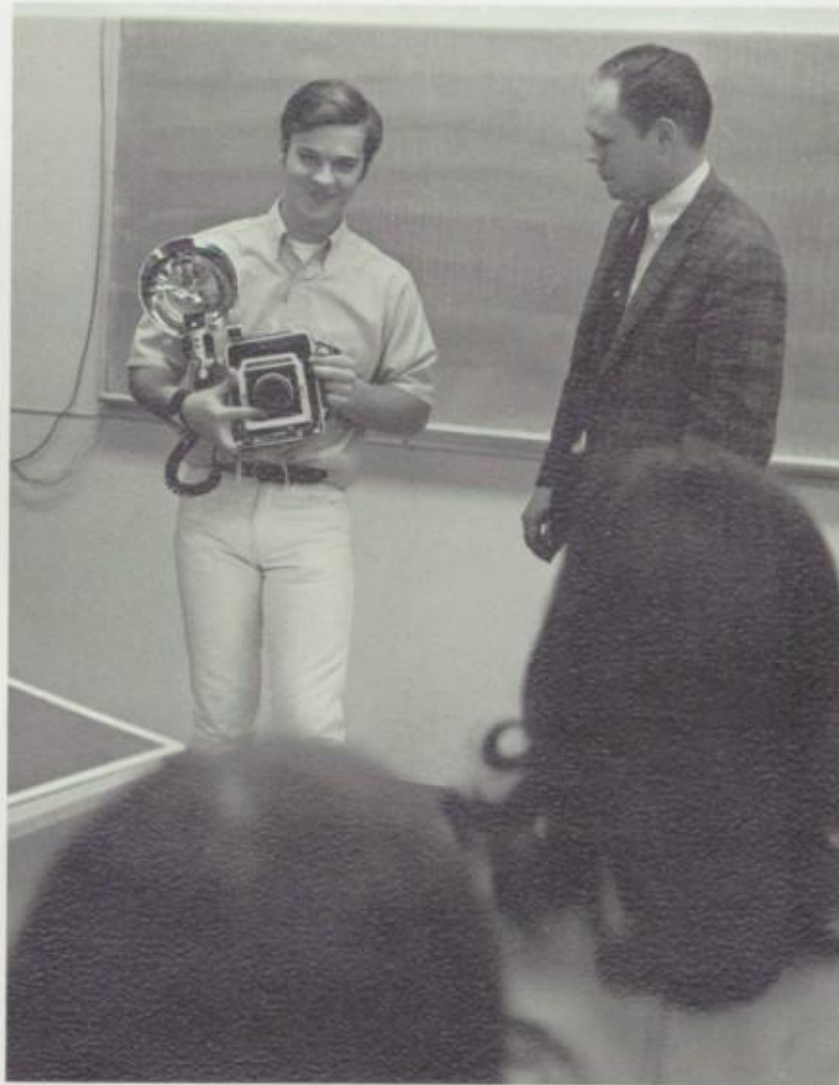

Yes, the RAINIER VISTA is now completed. It's a finished book. It's too late to correct our mistakes, but we, the RAINIER VISTA staff, can now say "Thank you" to students and friends of Auburn Academy, for letting us share in the memories you will keep of Auburn Academy.

The last deadline!—the RAINIER VISTA staff gleefully give way to emotion.

Interviewing people, writing and rewriting stories, and laying out the final draft far into the night were the tasks facing the journalism class, editors, and sponsor, Miss Carolyn Stevens. Miss Stevens prodded reluctant reporters into turning in stories on time for final press. She aided the journalism students in writing techniques and grammar, and spent many late hours in her office "putting the paper to bed." This past year the journalism class was small, four students. Each began to realize the responsibility that was theirs, that of accurate newsreporting coupled with interesting writing.

Glenda Kiselbach, City Belles side leader, marches out to start off the paper campaign.

Gene Roemer happily performs menial tasks for a letterman in slave initiation.

Sports are for physical fitness, development of school spirit, and enjoyment. These and many more were the reasons for active participation last year. Many intramural games were played such as football, soccer, volleyball, and basketball. Individual competition was also high, especially in tennis and track. The physical education department helped the students learn and develop the techniques required for participation in these sports and games. Boys who excel in various sports earn the honor of being a letterman.

Skiing on the slopes of Crystal Mountain proved to be the sport in which students really put forth enthusiasm. The three buses loaded at four, and by five thirty, provided there were no breakdowns or flat tires, the students were flying down the slopes. There were instructive lessons which met for an hour, before or after which the students skied at their own leisure. After approximately three good hours of skiing, buses were loaded and the cold, wet, sleepy students returned back to campus.

The tennis court is a favorite place for working off energy.

Calisthenics require persistence and coordination which the students in their P.E. classes diligently exercise.

Gymnastics

Bill Lowe jumps a double sommersault.

The "clown" does a handstand on Jerry Vixie.

Shelia Kinney balances on unevens.

The team starts with forward rolls.

Skiing

Ski students wait for their lesson.

With arms flung out, Greg Peterson jumps mogules.

Roger Moody whizzes down the slope for a final run.

Carolyn Riederer's fur coat is her trademark on the slopes.

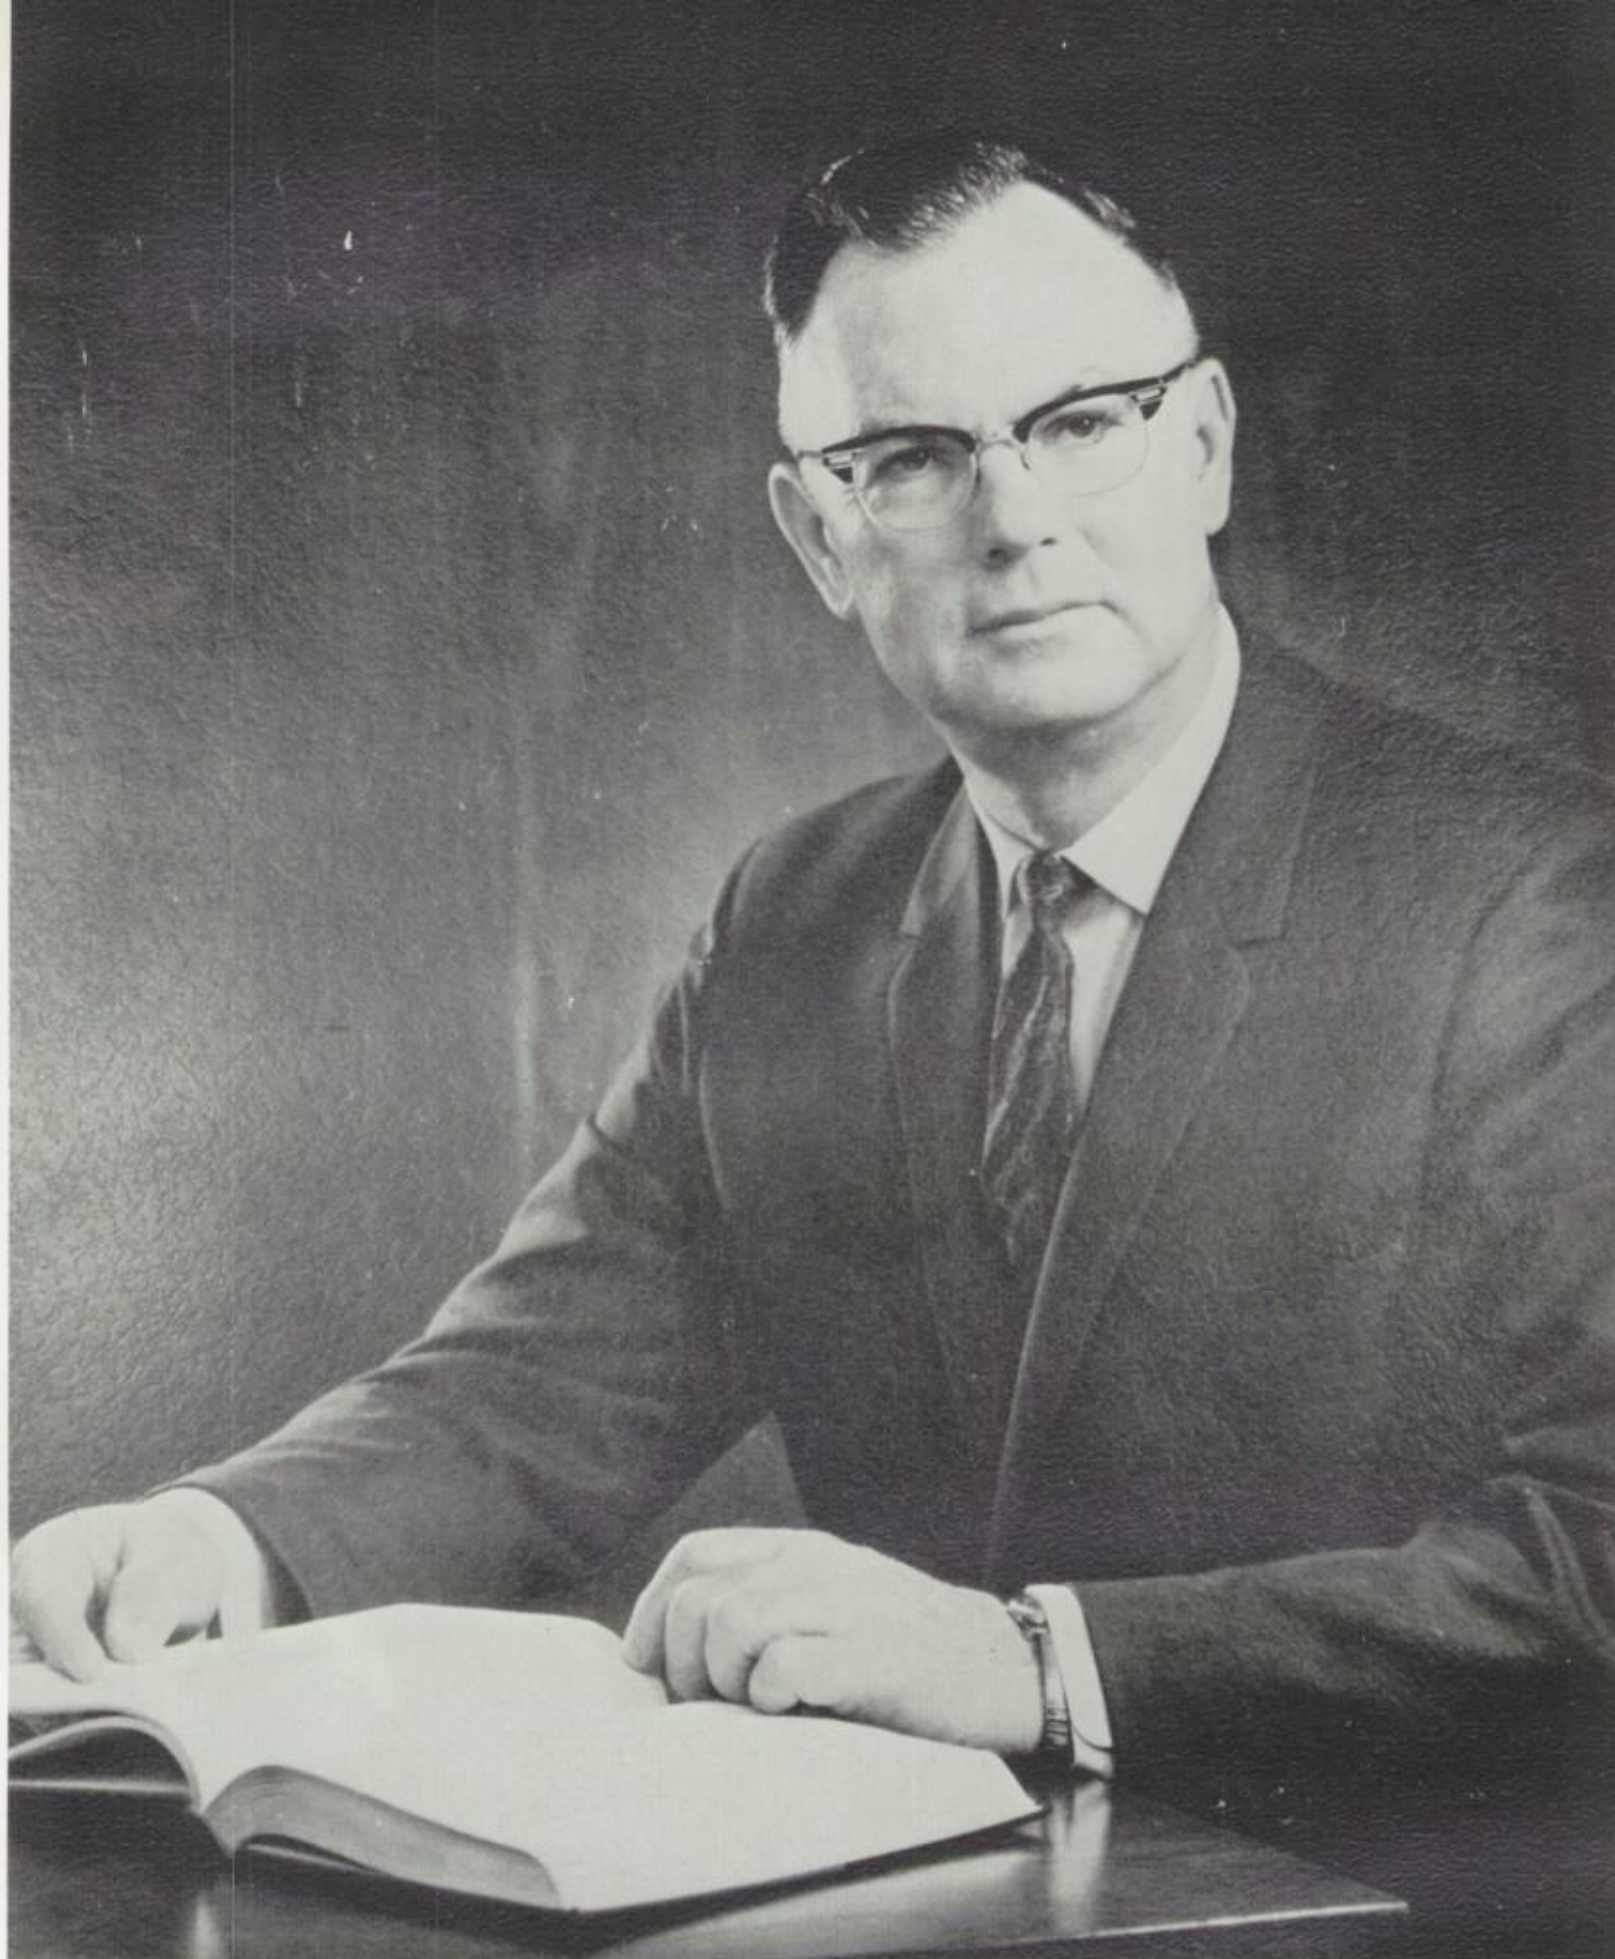

Girls enjoy a vigorous game of basketball.

Keith Thompson enjoys the powder during some free time.

Perfect form takes a lot of practice.

Dr. J. V. Peters became a part of Auburn Academy in June 1968. Here he immediately became involved in the coming year's activities. He was deeply concerned with the development of Auburn Academy in the community and with the progress of the students. Many students were helped and guided by this man of God and were greatly saddened at his death, on July 16, 1969.

In Memory of Dr. J. V. Peters

Dear Terri:

Well, well, well!! Who would have ever guessed that I would make it through this year! Believe me, I didn't think I would! It's really been a blast (most of the time) this year. Sometimes down, but mostly up. I'll miss lots of the kids, but it's worth it to graduate. Right? As always, love ya.

Terri,
Since you asked me to write something in the back of your annual, I will do as much. You're a nice kid, Terri, and I know you'll always have a lot of fun. Take it easy, you know what I mean.
Love ya lots - Bill

Dear Derr,

Take care this summer - always keep God in mind!

Love,
Mike

Here,
Wow! What a year!
Especially since here senior. Good luck in college. Remember God is number one, He's the best!

Love,
Sherrie

Hi
Derry W. hope you will
a good year in school
next year.

Love
Mike

Dear Dory,
I'm sure glad I have a friend as sweet as you are.
I say that way always and keep your determination and you'll get a long ways in life. Hope to see you again even after you graduate.

Love,
Rae Dee

Dear Derr,
Well sis of mine this year is just about over & everytime I think of it
I start to cry, Boy will I miss not seeing you next year + comin up to grad in your room. Remember that gave in your late + finally stayed all (It's about time mom!) never coming + working on the banquet Vacation + always stay as cute + as much. Always will be fine you are + every thing together. Keep Christ as your best friend always - my own King? sis,
Love
laughter,
Beth

Terri,
 Hey it's been fun working with you on the glue machine. Don't forget me and come see me some day.
 Gary Turner

Dear Terri,
 This year has been really cool. I guess I won't see you next year bungs you are one of those (cough, cough) cool seniors.
 hope to see you again some time.

Lots of love and luck
 Cindy

Dear Terri,
 just a quick line to say - it's been great getting to know you this year. Have fun and always stay like you are! Remember to be good this summer and write when you can. Best of luck in all you do in the future - I know you will go far.

Love

 Forever

Dearest Terri,
 Over the past two years of knowing you, our love has grown progressively stronger. I just don't know how long I'll be able to control this passionate fever, but I'd better not talk about it anymore here. (smile) Really, Terri, it has been great knowing you. All the way from Mrs. Weir's chemistry class, to Mr. Miller's U.S., to C.V.P.A. You should certainly know by now that you can't beat me in grades! (To Be) you have your own "fine" points, however, which I must mention at this time. First of all you're so beautiful. Terri you know how many times I have told you that, and yet you act as if you don't think it's true. Well anyway, at least you're smart. And while on that subject, I'd like to tell you what a fine job you did in the oratorical contest and I have still to get a 4. grade card. And then you are so athletic, remember tennis and ping pong.
 And above all these things you have musical talent. Don't forget our band tours. And last, but not least, you are so loving, and it's good I'm about to run out of room; cause I don't have much to say about this. But I'll always remember you.

DEAR BEAST, (TE)
 ITS BEEN GREAT FUN KNOWING YOU THIS YEAR. ESPECIALLY HOME EQ. CLASS.
 Love, Debbie (Beast)
 are and keep the faith always.

Remember to do this Class. I think I have been a good student. I hope you are happy and I hope you are happy.

 Dear Terri,
 You're a nice girl
 and I like you a lot.
 I kinda like your brother too! This has been a good year and good friends (remember good ol' Mrs. Albers)
 You're real sweet stay that way!
 Lots of Love,
 Judi

Dear Terri,
 You're a very sweet girl.
 I'm glad I had a chance to have some heart to heart talks with you. We sure had some good times on our band tours. Remember how mean I was to you in band rehearsals, always tickling your pretty little arm. Oh yeah, remember our fun time at the band clinic. When we went swimming and took a five mile walk at night. Then Sabbath we went walking all around in the community, and remember the cemetery? Now about after the concert when we were outside with that fat guy making fools of ourselves. We went skipping up and down the parking lot.

Dear Terri,

It's been real great knowing you! You're the best of friends. I've really been enjoying school at home but I miss ya lots. You're a real out-of-sight roommate! Don't lose your cool personality ever! I don't know what to write, seems like I haven't seen you for so everlastingly long. Don't forget all the fun we've had even if it got cut short. Be good and I wish you all the love + luck I can.

Love ya lots always

Clara

be sure + write this summer

come see me when ever ya can..!

Hi Terry,
Man, it's been a really great year. hih! I'll be glad to get out of here (graduate first of course) and then get on with the "normal" life!

Hip hip hooray

for FREE DOM!

Remember the good ole'

basketball games that

I got in on on the last

2 games!

Yea Team!

Be good this summer and don't ever forget

~~at~~ least and showers in the dark!

Write if you ever get around to it.

See ya at handshake

next year!

Bye,

Yea Team
